

Sonnet: On Being a Christian

Like Christ's, a Christian's life will have to be;
Like Him, he'll carry crosses all his life;
He'll live amidst a world of treachery;
His love of God gets reinforced by strife.

Like Christ, the world will unfairly treat him;
And punish him for 'crimes' which he ne'er did;
His woes and foes will make his life so grim;
Nevertheless, they will fail in their bid.

For Holy Spirit guides each Christian!
Against devils, evils, misdeeds and sin;
He walks boldly in the road to Heaven;
On earth and Heaven, the Christian will win.

A Christian's life tho' difficult is best;
And Christ will help him pass the final test.

-- Dr John Celes

http://www.poetry-club.com/love_poem-6590-Sonnet: On Being a Christian.html

