

THANKSGIVING DAY HAS COME AND GONE

Thanksgiving Day has come and gone;
Our tables have been richly spread –
I know leftovers linger on –
But does our thanks for daily bread?

For thanks, some folk demand their cake,
Their pie, their turkey – trimmings too;
They grasp for more than they can take,
And surely more than they are due!

The man who reaches up in greed
Creates a future of despair.
My daily bread is all I need;
My daily thanks shall rise in prayer.
